

Esquire

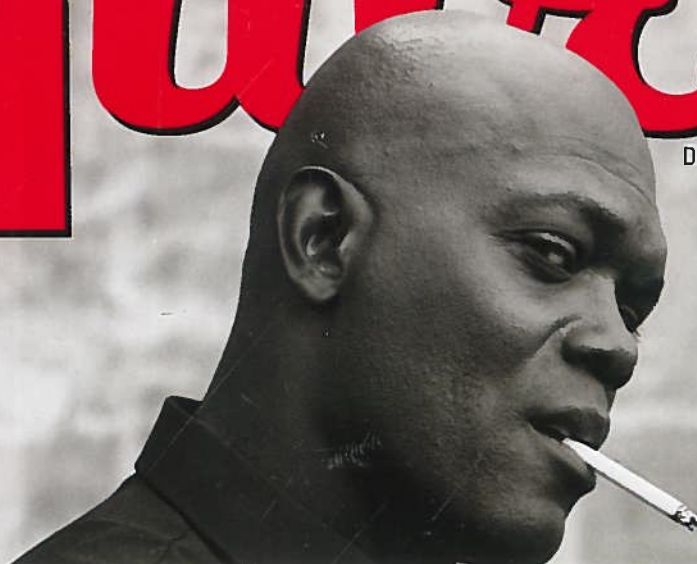

www.esquire.co.uk

THE SHARPER READ FOR MEN

DECEMBER 2001 £3.40

SAMUEL L JACKSON

Filming The 51st State

LIFE JUST GOT BETTER...

Ever fancied living a celebrity lifestyle, complete with Puff Daddy (or P Diddy) perks and privileges? Then welcome to Quintessentially, the exclusive "lifestyle concierge" company that acts as a fairy godfather to its highly savvy members. Wherever, whenever and whatever you want, Quintessentially will take care of it. It could be a private jet to the world's trendiest destinations, tickets to that U2 concert, a table at Attica, a room at One Aldwych or a hot-air balloon trip in Kenya – whatever your desire, it is just a phone call away. Of course, such service and expertise is not given away – it costs £400 to become a member – but once you've signed up, founders Ben Elliot and Luca del Bono promise they will never fail to deliver. On top of all the glamorama, the Quintessentially team are also there around the clock to look after the boring practicalities of life, to do the sifting and sorting, to save you time and to find you treats. Your car can be unclamped, a broken window repaired, the dog walked and the dinner party prepared, leaving you to enjoy life. Oh, and, for the record, yes, Puffy is a member.

Enquiries: 08000 156 996; www.quintessentially.com